SELF-HAUL CONDITIONS

The right of a Construction Contractor to self-haul from a Construction & Demolition project is subject to the following conditions. A non-refundable self-haul permit fee is applicable to each project. (You cannot serve solely as a hauler.)

- You must be:
  - * A State licensed Construction Contractor.
  - * Performing Construction and Demolition work on the job site.
  - * Performing the self-haul.
  - * Self-hauling recyclables or Construction & Demolition material. You can haul these same materials for any Construction Contractor at the same job site.

- Prior to any self-haul, the following certificates and permits must be active for the project:
  - * City business registration certificate.
  - * Building and demolition permit.
  - * Self-hauling permit.

- Prior to any self-haul, the following fees and deposits must be paid for the project:
  - * Construction and Demolition application fee.
  - * Security deposit.
  - * Self-haul fee.

- The self-hauling equipment must be:
  - * Owned or leased by the self-hauler.
  - * Clearly marked with the self-hauler's company name, address, and phone number.
  - * Operated by the self-hauler or self-hauler's employees at all times during any self-haul.
  - * Insured by the self-hauler.

Failure to meet the self-haul conditions may result in fines, citations, or any other remedies authorized under the municipal code and revocation of the ability to self-haul recyclables or Construction & Demolition materials in the City of San Bernardino.
