

San Bernardino Public Library Hosts a Water Conservation Workshop

The San Bernardino Public Library will be hosting a Water Conservation program at the Paul Villasenor Branch Library at 525 N. Mt. Vernon Avenue on Monday, September 9, 2013 at 6:00 p.m. The Inland Empire Resource Conservation District has teamed up with partner agency, San Bernardino Valley Municipal Water District, to present this free program.

Topics will include water use efficiency and conservation; incorporating native plants into landscaping; and water conservation rebates. Attendees will have a chance to win native plants and consultation time with local native plant nursery Wild California.

The Inland Empire Resource Conservation District (IERCD) strives to promote the good stewardship of our Natural Resources through the cooperation of local landowners, state, federal and local government agencies, the agricultural community and environmental and community groups.

The San Bernardino Valley Municipal Water District is a local water provider working to improve water conservation awareness among its residents.

This program is free and open to the public. For more information contact Linda Adams at 909-381-8238 or adams.lin@sbpl.org
